

LIVE WITH WHAT YOU LOVE

with Shay Geyer

The world we live in today can be stressful and chaotic. Your home should be designed as a place that you love retreating to at the end of the day.

The psychology of color is an important thing to consider when designing your home. Whether you prefer a neutral palette or you love bold, saturated hues, surround yourself in colors that make you feel good to ensure a home that does the same.

Designing rooms around an exceptional piece of art or a treasured collection not only gives you a starting point but also deeply personalizes the space and make it uniquely yours.

Shay Geyer

Shay Geyer is inspired by fashion, traveling, the arts, family, and friends. Her passion for interiors and interior products makes creating beautiful spaces for clients her true dream career. Clients rave about her ability to transform a house into a welcoming and happy home. Mostly known for her use of color, pattern, and texture, she claims the key to a successful interior is the application of her design mantra, which is to create an inviting atmosphere that reflects the personal taste and lifestyle of each client. Each of her designs infuses unique elements that are hand selected or tailored specifically for the client that facilitate comfortable, family-friendly living. Her portfolio ranges from commercial spaces, including projects for major corporations and doctors' offices, to residential projects across the country, including high-rises and sprawling estates. Geyer's personal approach to design often lands her high-profile and lifelong clients who trust her not only with their primary homes, but also their vacation homes around the world.
